SUPPLEMENT TO REPORT NO.

1. The airfield southeast of BARANOVICHI (26°3'E/53°8'N), White Russian SSR, was surrounded by a barbed wire fence. There was a guardhouse at the entrance. The about 13,000-foot square airfield area included a 3,300-foot square woods with at least 20 cantonment buildings, each occupied by 30 to 40 air personnel and parachutists. A fuel dump was in the southern section of the woods and three destroyed hangars on the eastern edge. An about 4,000 - 5,000-foot gray-yellow runway extended along the landing field south of the woods.
2. The field was occupied by at least 100 single-engine and twin-engine aircraft which were used mostly for parachute practices.  30 aircraft 25X1X took off, one after the other, with 10 paratroopers jumping from each at an altitude of 1,000 feet. These practices were performed over the southern section of the field.
